

Wells Fargo Workers Are Forming A Union

and Branch Workers are part of our movement

"Coming together as a union, we can take a stand to protect our jobs."

We can advocate for ourselves and ensure our customers have a positive and timely in-person experience."

Teara Tessier, Operational Accounting Assistant in Consumer & Small Business Banking

"I support a union at Wells Fargo because I want to address understaffing."

With the constant reduction of staff adding more job responsibilities for the rest of us without any additional compensation, it's more important than ever."

Corinne Sheffel Jefferson, Personal Banker

We're fighting for:

- Increased Pay
- Better Staffing
- Increased Retirement Benefits
- Job Security
- Consistent & defined job roles
- Fair compensation for increased responsibilities

We are stronger together, our numbers are growing every day, so join us!

"Having a union would help us advocate for fair pay increases."

While increasing minimum pay to $18-$20/hour was a good first step, it's not nearly enough. Many long-time employees received little to no raise, or even worse accounting for high inflation rates."

Ben Turner, Senior Infrastructure Engineer

We have the right to organize a union and it's protected by federal law. Find out more.

bit.ly/WFWUbranch

Removal of this flyer may violate the National Labor Relations Act.

Wells Fargo Workers United is not in any way affiliated with Wells Fargo.